

I am very opposed to the proposal to allow cell phone use in airplanes. Cell phone usage is intrusive and annoying, particularly in small areas. I also think that there should be a prohibition on cell phone use after passengers enter a plane, even before take off procedures. The pervasiveness of cell phone use disturbs whatever peace and tranquility exists for nearby individuals. I really have no desire to listen to others conversations. Steven Farber